Market today: A replicate scenario

(Hieu Nguyen – Ext: 1514)

Trading scenario repeated what happened yesterday; VN-Index rose in the morning yet gradually slid back to the reference as the session came to an end. While VNM and VCB increased, VIC and GAS tried to curb the rise of the VN-Index. Reaching 690.05 points in the morning, but VN-Index closed at 687.32 points only, a slightly gain of 0.04%. Meanwhile, HNX-Index increased 0.51%, mostly due to price of SHB went ceiling. Trading volume on the HSX spiked with more than 140 million shares, equivalent to a value of VND2,375 billion.

In recent sessions, large-cap stocks could not unite but went up or down separately, lowering the motivation of the market. As a consequence, the rise of VN-Index was significantly hindered. However, market breadth shown improvement as gainers outweighed losers. For example, VN30 stocks diminished 0.13%, yet the rest of the market still performed well; VNMID up 0.27% and VNSML gained a remarkable 0.77%. This shown that market may not have further room to grow, but the opportunity still lay in particular stocks. In other words, as the market goes up higher and higher, stock pitching becomes more and more important.
